

FINANCIAL SERVICES SECRETARY LAURA D'AMICO accepts payment from students in late registration. The payoff is the final step, essential to lock in one's schedule for the semester. Tuition payments totaled more than $425,000 for the spring semester, said Business Services Coordinator Becky Wyatt.

Registration shows stability

When the long registration lines finally faded, TJC officials agreed that an encouraging enrollment opened spring semester. Once the final adjustments concerning some schedules are made enrollment will rise slightly over 6,577, said Institutional Research Director Robert Cullins.

This will be done this week, he said, clearing some schedules which are still for some reason locked into the computer.

For the third year TJC has exceeded 6,500 in spring enrollment, said C.C. Baker, associate vice president of development and college relations. While "a dropoff between fall semester and spring semester is always expected, ...this year TJC had the smallest drop from fall to spring in more than a decade."

"We feel good about the figures of spring enrollment. At some junior/community colleges around the state enrollment has fluctuated sharply, but when we look at TJC enrollments over the last several years, we see a definite pattern of stability," Baker said.

At the end of registration Jan. 10, 16 more students were enrolled than at the same time last year. The four days of late registration added another 485 students to bring the total at the end of late registration to 6,577. This compares with 6,860 at the end of late and regular registration last spring.

Fall 1984 enrollment totaled 7,155, but spring enrollments in all colleges including TJC, are usually lower than the fall.

Wesley to sponsor area retreat

Deadline is Feb. 1 for signing up for the all school retreat sponsored by the Wesley Foundation.

Wesley Director the Rev. Harvey Beckendorf said the retreat would be Feb. 8-10 at Lakeview Association in Palestine.

The Rev. Robert Breihan will be the resource person.

'Celebration' changes date

The annual "Celebration of Life" which has been moved to Feb. 12 instead of April 2 and 3, will feature "The Cotton Patch Gospel," a stage production. The Group, a professional musical touring company of eight actors who perform music and portray Bible presentations in modern form will present the drama.

Critics have said the Group has delighted audiences throughout the country. "The performance is Blue Grass Style music written by the late Harry Chapin. This was his last script before he died," said Celebration Chairman Bob Mayfield, Baptist Student Union director.

Two performances are planned, at 10 a.m. and an evening show at 7:30 p.m., both Feb. 12 in Wise Auditorium.

The "Celebration of Life" day will begin with a 7 a.m. faculty breakfast in the campus cafeteria. Mayfield said he expects the actors to perform at the breakfast. All events including the two shows and the breakfast are free.

Celebration Committee includes, in addition to Mayfield; Harvey Beckendorf, Keith Bridges, George Cox, Marilyn Coler, Bob Glover and Richard Minter.

Other faculty members include: Ann Miller, Bill Monds, Bill Norton, Tom Rodgers, Charles Stedling, James Wicks and Radiance Young.

Application requests can be mailed to: Miss Longview Corporation, P.O. Box 3965, Longview 75601.

Senate sets goals for spring

Student Senate has changed its goals for the spring semester.

"Our goal," said Student Senate President, Phillip Ambrose, "will be to provide some activities for the dorms throughout the year. We had some this semester, but there still wasn't enough."

Ambrose said he is also planning to bring in a person from technology to help bring the two sides of campus together.

"They're on one side of campus and we're on the other. We need to bring them over since they are part of the campus, especially since they are larger than our side," said Ambrose.

Senate has also tentatively planned for spring:

- a dorm twister tournament Feb. 4 and 7;
- Spring Roommate Games March 4-7;
- a dorm Family Feud April 8-11;

Lack of alcohol changes rush

By Garland Pack
staff writer

Students will notice a sharp change in fraternity and sorority rush week which began Monday. The usually wild keg parties off campus will convert to a more sophisticated party on campus with the absence of all alcohol. The change was initiated with a trial "dry" rush week last fall.

Sparked by nationwide alcohol awareness programs at many senior universities, TJC has supported the trend. Amazingly all fraternities and sororities have accepted this trend. Reasons for their compliance have been the financial costs skyrocketing during rush, too much time spent drawing beer to rush anyone, legalities centering around fraternity parties and a dry county and the overall quality deterioration of members picked up during keg parties.

The change was prompted, said Intergreek Sponsor Emma Lou Prater "due to the realization that we aren't getting the ideal student to appeal to the sorority or fraternity through wet rush. We intend to enhance our fraternities and sororities by really picking up the student who is really interested in the fraternity or sorority. Too much time, money and effort are spent in vain on the wrong priorities."

To insure that the student is interested in Greek life each student must attend two dry rush parties to be eligible to join a fraternity or sorority. Each time a student attends a dry rush party he will get his rush card stamped. These rush cards can be purchased for $5 in the Activities Office.

Rush week which began Monday and will end with a big All-Greek Party at Harvey Hall Monday, Jan. 28 included an all-Greek dinner, an all-girl party and an after-game party. On the other days each fraternity and sorority could have one private party.

Project Excel begins 2nd year

Project Excel, a tutoring program, is in its second year as the spring semester begins. Tutors are students and any student can get help through the program.

During the fall semester 85 tutors filled 350 requests and more tutors are expected for spring, said Support Services Specialist Vickie Geisel.

Anyone who would be interested in tutoring fellow students can sign up in the Counseling Center in the Student Center as soon as possible, said Geisel.

But certain requirements must be met.

First, the student must be recommended by the instructor for the course or courses to tutor in. A student must also be enrolled for at least six hours, have an overall 3.0 GPA and a B average in the subject he/she wishes to tutor. The student must also clear financial aid, have good communication skills and attend a 2-hour tutor training program, said Geisel.

Students who meet these requirements will be able to tutor, as needed or available, for $4 an

Anyone who needs tutoring should sign up in the Counseling Center, Geisel said. A tutor will be assigned if one is available and tutor and individual can set up a time convenient to both. Tutoring is completely free to TJC students.

Nurse offers help with health

By Betty Helt
staff writer

If one has a health problem and doesn't know where to turn, he or she should go to the north end of the Student Center and turn right. College Nurse Zelda Boucher can help. Her office hours are from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and during that time she leaves only for short errands or emergencies.

Boucher, who graduated from TJC and Texas Eastern School of Nursing, has worked for the college seven years. She has been college nurse for three years.

Boucher offers a wide variety of services--everything from an aspirin to crutches--and her services are free.

In spring 1983, her office was moved to the Student Center--across from the Counseling Center.

Comparing September 1983 to September 1984, Boucher said, "I saw twice as many students this September." Yet many students, for a variety of reasons, do not take advantage of her free services, Boucher explained.

In her waiting room, students will find free booklets on a variety of topics. Venereal disease, good hygiene and coping with stress are just a few of the subjects covered.

Boucher always has a smile and usually has a solution for minor health problems. She also refers students to doctors, hospitals and community agencies if the problem is serious.
